Aperiodic crystals @ IUCr Congress, 5-12 August 2014, Montreal

Plenary Lecture: Dan Shechtman

The discovery of quasicrystals

Keynote Lecture: Marc de Boissieu,

Phonons and Phasons - from modulated structures to quasicrystals

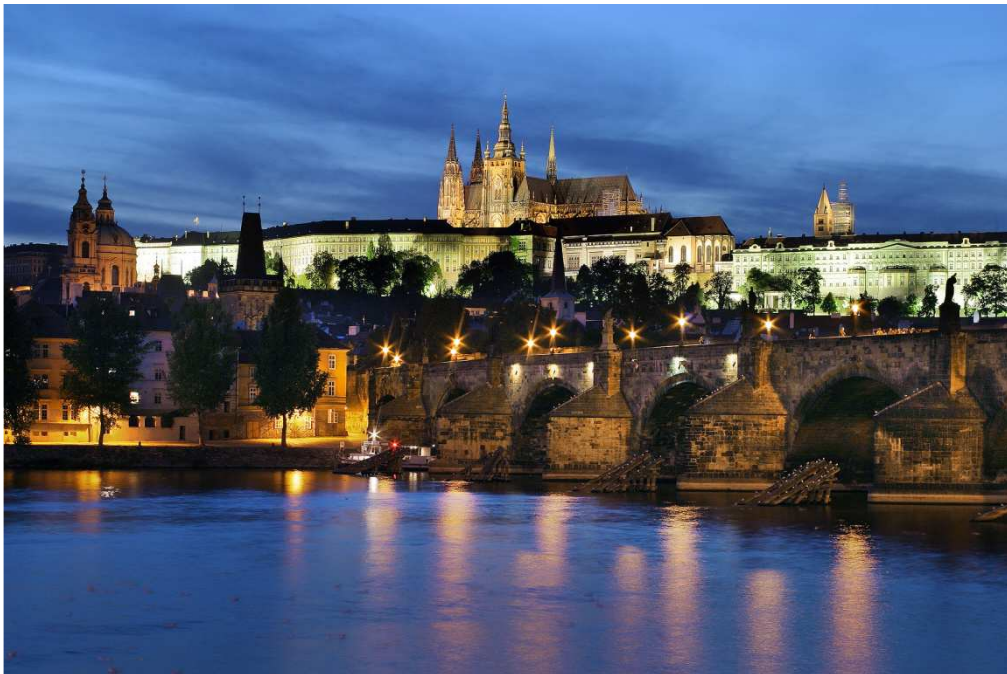

Micro Symposia:

- Recent advances in quasicrystal research
- High-pressure crystallography of Periodic and Aperiodic Crystals
- Chemistry and Physics of Modulated and Composite Crystals
- Commensurate and incommensurate multiferroics and magnetoelectrics
- Crystals and beyond
- Diffuse scattering and partial disorder in complex structures (phasons, dislocations, frustration, twinning, singular continuous diffraction)
- Challenging macromolecular crystals: twinning, aperiodicity, and low resolution
- Macromolecular and soft-matter aperiodic crystals
- Multiferroics and other multi-functional materials: synthesis, properties and high-pressure behavior
- Pushing the boundaries of aperiodic magnetic & crystal structure solution
- Frustration, topology and chirality in metals and complex oxides

Aperiodic 2015

Kathmandu

Nepal

Location of Nepal: Nepal is located in the Himalayas and bordered to the north by China and to the south, east, and west by India.

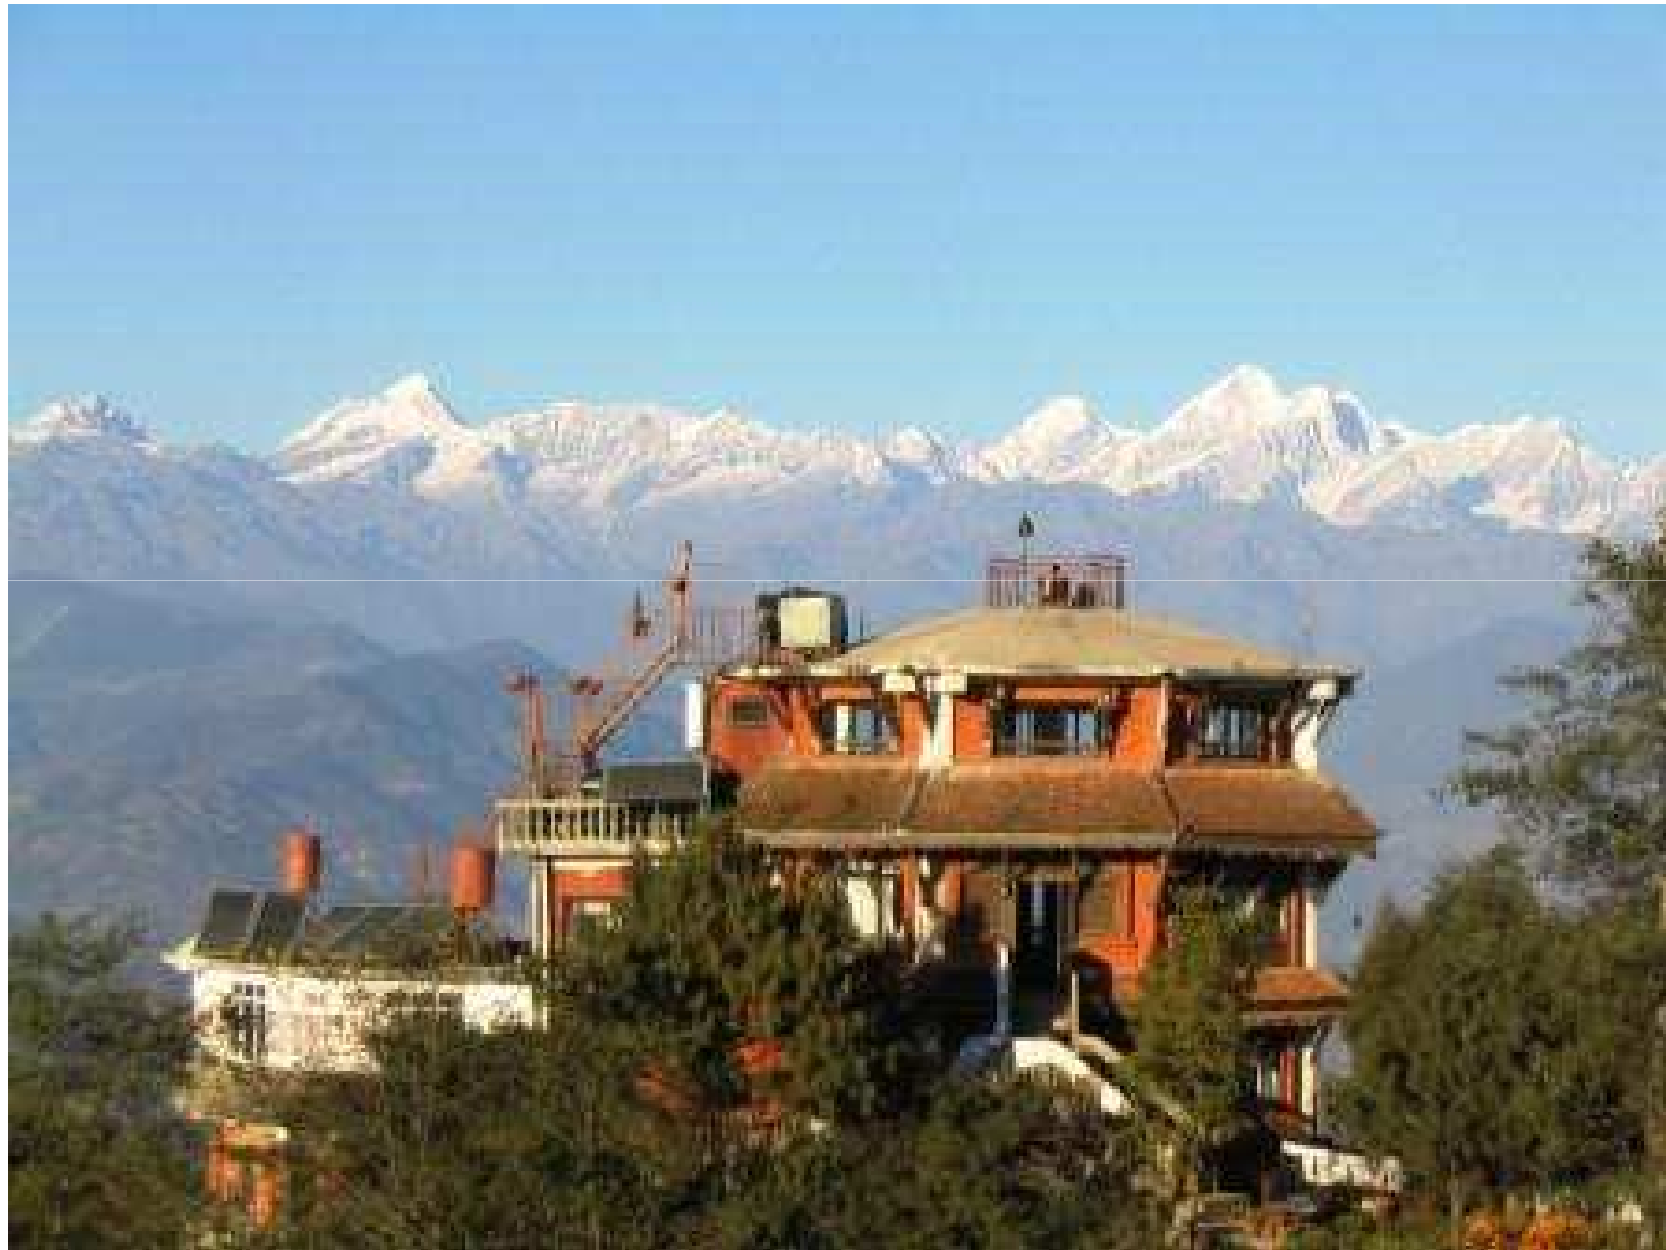

Air link: Tribhuvan International airport in Kathmandu is linked to various cities in the world. People can fly to Kathmandu via many cities in Middle East (Qatar airlines, Ethical airlines, Nepal airlines etc), Far East (Thai, Dragon, Singapore, Korean airlines) and in India (air India, jet airways, and Nepal airlines).

Visa: Citizen of most countries can get on arrival at airport.

Best Seasons: September-October, March-April

Possible Conference Resort: 45 minutes from the airport

Social activities and Excursion

Can combine holidays in nearby location
